

Delta Agricultural Society donates $250,00 to new Reach centre project

On Monday June 18th the Delta Agricultural Society donated $250,000 to Reach Child and Youth Development Society's Building for Children Together capital building project. Peter Guichon, President of the Delta Agricultural Society presented the donation to Reach Foundation Chair Irene Forcier (left) Reach Executive Director Renie D'Aquila.

Peter Guichon of the Delta Agricultural Society said, "The Agricultural Society has donated to many worthwhile projects, and I can't think of one that's more worthwhile than this one. We are very proud to help kick off this campaign. Very proud."

Irene Forcier, Chair of Reach Foundation, commended the Delta Agricultural Society for its leadership. "By making this donation they are helping children with special needs access other amenities such as public transportation. The Agricultural Society is leading the way for others interested in supporting children with special needs, their intellectual and social learning and growth, and their acceptance into the heart of the community."

Thank you Delta Agricultural Society for your very generous donation, and continuing to support children and families in the community.
